

幸せのかたち

TH-THAT WAS NO-THING BUT A JOKE!

Mmm!!

A black and white manga panel showing two young women with short hair and bangs. They are both wearing collared shirts with dark neckerchiefs. They are leaning in and kissing each other on the lips. Their eyes are closed, and they have a content expression. A speech bubble from the girl on the left says "Mmm!!".

Puhaa!!
I can't stand up!

A black and white manga panel showing the same two girls from the previous panel. They are now hugging each other. The girl on the left is laughing with her mouth open and eyes closed. The girl on the right is looking at her with a slightly surprised or blushing expression. A speech bubble from the girl on the left says "Puhaa!! I can't stand up!".

drip

A black and white manga panel showing a close-up of the lower legs and feet of the two girls. They are wearing dark stockings and white shoes with dark socks. There are small puddles of liquid on the floor around their feet. The text "drip drip" is written near the puddles.

Are you getting off on the students
watching you as they go home?

A black and white manga panel showing a close-up of the legs of the girl on the right. She is wearing a white skirt and dark stockings. A speech bubble next to her says "Are you getting off on the students watching you as they go home?".

THEIR TEACHER

I love you
so much,
Prez!

Jeez... What's going through your mind, Prez?

Oh yeah that's how it all started
the first time,
too

Let's continue training when we get back to our room

I just act on my desires.

Thanks for your patronage, Umekichi here. Thank you very much for reading. The dialect had always been a bottleneck for me, but I was finally able to make this Mailme book. I wrote this while using the wiki for Saga dialect, along with some explanatory websites. I'm not sure how great it ended up being. It may read a little closer to Kyushuu dialect. That's frightening (lol).

This time around, Maiyu took the lead from start to finish. I was a little disappointed I wasn't able to draw anything with Himeto inviting Maiyu to act. That's what I believe their relationship is closer to.

I'll be getting away from Saki at my next event, which is Girls' Love Fest. I'll be doing an Akuma no Riddle book. I hope we can meet again soon!
